Pacific International Cup Player and Team Eligibility Rules

The Pacific International Cup (PIC) was established in 1998 by a group of club curlers interested in the development of the sport at the grass roots level. Keeping that in mind, they adopted the following Vision and Mission statements which still define the “spirit of the PIC”.

Our Vision

To be the premier curling event in the world for the development of the sport at the grass roots level providing BC club champions and international teams with an opportunity to showcase their skills and participate in a unique international competition.

Our Mission

The Pacific International Cup is a partnership event between the Pacific International Cup and the Richmond Curling Centre. The mission of the Pacific International Cup is to:

- Promote and develop the sport of curling throughout British Columbia by providing BC club championship teams with the opportunity to participate in a premier international event;
- Promote and develop the sport of curling globally by providing other curling associations with the opportunity to have their club curlers and teams participate in a premier international event; and to
- Promote and showcase the facilities and organizational capabilities of the Richmond Curling Centre.

In order to stay true to our vision and mission, to help curling associations and teams maintain the spirit of the PIC with their entries and to keep a level playing field, the PIC has established the following player and team eligibility rules.

1. All team members must be from the same curling association and members from the same curling club (not necessarily from the same team in that club).
2. Only one team member may have played in a national championship that leads directly to a World Championship or Olympic Championship in men’s, women’s, seniors’, juniors’ or mixed doubles in the past five years.
3. No team member may have played in a World Championship or Olympic Championship.
4. All team members must be a minimum of 19 years of age as at the first day of the PIC competition for that year.
5. The PIC reserves the right to consider exceptions to these rules under special circumstances and within the spirit of the PIC on written application by an association at the time that team nominations are being submitted.
